EME - DP1POL (IB59uh) QRV 1296 MHz:

Hello everyone, there's always something new to discover in amateur radio: after 23 years of hamming, I have today completed my first ever moonbounce QSO! This was quite exciting for me, and I'd like to express my thanks to DF1OI, DJ9YW and DL3OCH who raised my interest in EME and really helped getting me on the air. I currently work at the German research station "Neumayer III" in Antarctica (DXCC: CE9) and I'll be here for a few more months. The 23cm EME station will be set up at least until October 2009, maybe longer. If anyone would like to arrange a sked, please contact me by e-mail. My grid locator is IB59uh, and I run about 500 Watts to a single 67 element yagi. Today, I was able to copy DJ9YW's JT65c signal with -18 dB at peaks. There will be a good window on the moon this weekend at my location, and I'll have a bit of time on my hands, so I'll be happy to give it a try with anyone who is interested. 73 from Antarctica

This is the small report of a short holiday - not a real dx-pedition in JN43BX. 50m asl near the beach. Probably I was the smallest qrpppppp station in the shower, just 35W from TS790 (!) and one half of a 17el. F9FT yagi (balcony too short for full antenna).
I worked 48 ms fsk441 stations in 5 days for most of them JN43 is a Hello, I received a lot of replies to my previous messages to the reflector, and I would like to thank everyone who showed interest in my 23cm EME operation from Antarctica. So far, I have been able to work DF3RU, DJ9YW, ES5PC, ES6RQ, G4CBW, G4CCH, K2UYH, LZ1DX, OE9ERC, OK1DFC, OK1KIR, PA3CSG, RD3DA, and W5LUA on JT65c, plus one contact with OE9ERC on CW. The 1296 MHz station will be set up for at least two more months, and I am still very interested in trying to work other stations. So if you think you have a chance of copying my weak signal off the moon, please let me know and I will be happy to arrange a sked. I am running approximately 500 W of power into a single 19,9 dBD gain Yagi (SHF 2367). My location is Neumayer Station, Antarctica, Grid Locator IB59uh. 73 from Antarctica, Felix, DP1POL (also DL5XL, QSL via DL1ZBO).

PS: I am sorry I do not have equipment for 144 MHz or 432 MHz.

BAD NEWS abt 6 Meter from the GLORIOSOS-Team dated 2009-08-24: GLORIOSOS 2009 and Magic band. The propagation forecast for the Magic band from Gloriosos is very bad at the expedition time, quite in all directions. Taking advice from 6 meters specialists, they inform us that chances to give FT5GA to world hams are very low and even less. The only one antenna available is a 2 el HB9CV, with no other possibility to bring an or several other more efficient one(s), included for EME; So it has been considered we had to focus on HF bands. So we sadly decided to concentrate our activity only from 160 to 10 meters.. We ask the 6m community to understand our decision. 73 Didier, F5OGL, Team leader, Via Maurice, F5NQL, in charge of the Internet communication for FT5GA - LATEST Comment from Lance, W7GJ dated 2009-08-25: GLORIOSO - it seems we still have not been able to get the word out that this is the VERY BEST TIME of the solar cycle for 6m EME! I am not sure what more can be done :-(SOURCE: Lance, W7GJ via UKSMG Announce...

Tom/N4XP and Dave/WB4JTT, co-leaders for the 2009 Midway Island Dxpedition, sent out the following press release number 6 dated August 22nd (edited): "The K4M team has passed two important milestones this week. First we are pleased to present our transportation to Midway on October 9th, 2009. The team has chartered the G1 with the callsign N8E as shown (or will be available) on K4M Web page at: www.midway2009.com/kh4news.html (picture taken on Palmyra) Secondly, all radios, computers, antennas, coax, and the rest of the tons of gear have left Hawaii on a supply ship to Midway and will wait for the team there. Fundraising continues on our Web site, www.midway2009.com If you haven't visited it in a while stop by and help support our effort. All pre expedition contributors who are on LOTW will receive their confirmations within a week of the end of the DXpedition. This month we are highlighting three more team members.
